The "Journées Darwin" are a series of meetings aimed at bringing together researchers in the Parisian basin working on biological evolution.

Each "Journée" consists in a small number of seminars, in which the speakers are expected to explain the philosophy and the perspectives motivating their research, focusing on long-range goals rather than on immediate results.

The goal is to help in establishing connections among researchers interested in different aspects of biological evolution, working on different systems and in different laboratories.

Registration: https://sites.google.com/site/journeedarwin/

Christophe Antoniewski
(CNRS / Université Paris VI)

Marie-Anne Felix
(École Normale Supérieure)

Evelyne Heyer
(Muséum National d'Histoire Naturelle)

Lluis Quintana-Murci
(CNRS / Institut Pasteur)

Organisers:
Luca Peliti (University "Federico II" Naples)
Aleksandra Walczak (CNRS / École Normale Supérieure)
Marco Cosentino Lagomarsino (CNRS / Université Pierre et Marie Curie)
Hervé Isambert (CNRS / Institut Curie)

The "Journées" are generously hosted by the Institut Henri Poincaré.